

The Rules for Store Level Disposition are Changing.

Over Managing Today - lighter fluid, bug spray and...teddy bears?!?! You never know what is being "classified" as potentially hazardous for store level processing today.

Thankfully, the rules for store level processing are changing, but there is a catch. The new EPA regulation contains incentives for retailers to "over-manage" the disposal of certain items.

If you don't want to continue to over-pay for this over-managing, you, the manufacturer must direct the retailer on how your items should be disposed.

The experts at DRS Product Returns are here to help. The correct selection could save your company substantially! Contact us today for more information.

www.drreturns.com

DRS
PRODUCT RETURNS

Plush bears being marked hazardous.

Allowing retailers to use this loophole could cost you greatly.

